There is no denying that Dallas is known for its jewels, glitz, and glamour. And the work of jewelry designer Leah Gormly fits right in. Gormly was touched by art at a young age, and after dabbling in various mediums, discovered the artistic outlet that allowed her to completely convey her creativity – jewelry making. With a philosophy she refers to as “blending artistry with fashion,” she fully embraces her collection by serving as both the line’s designer and jeweler. Under the name LMG & Company, she designs pieces that are innovative, organic, and most importantly, textural. Gormly’s designs are a fusion of the classical and the modern, creating inimitable, intrinsic pieces. Watch for a new collection highlighted with the combination of 18K gold and black diamonds.
